The Car Show & Cruise Guide Issue #37

A Message from Dave

Here we are again, celebrating another year of producing the Car Show & Cruise Guide. Another milestone, one the staff of the Cruise Guide is proud of. For those few of you that are not familiar with us, we debuted at the Indoor Nationals seven years ago, and haven't looked back. Immediately we became the best source of information for the Mid-Atlantic Classic car Community. All thanks to our loyal advertisers and fans, along with the dedicated friends whom help us get this in your hands six times a year.

We plan to continue to publish the Cruise Guide for as long as we have the support, and are open to any suggestions for changes and new features. At this point we cannot grow without financial support outside our current distribution area. If your club would like to receive a bundle or two of magazines, perhaps a donation towards the mailing expense, or finding a new advertiser in your area for the magazine could help make that happen. Just touch base with me. Over the next few months, we will be fine tuning our distribution, coverage, and content. Change is good, and important for the health of any business, so we will always be looking for ways to be profitable and healthy for the foreseeable future. And we'll never lose our focus and mission to make sure the local cruisers have the best possible source of show & cruise information. So there you have it, the Cruise Guide will continue to be the areas Car Show "Bible". No worries, no concerns folks- we are here to stay. We truly appreciate all of our 15,000 readers.

Besides for the print magazine, we have the website www.carcruiseguide.com that gets over 90,000 visits a year, and the Facebook page. Updates are made monthly to the site, and many photos that don't make the magazine are online or on the Facebook page. Event listings that are not sent in on time for the magazine can be found online as well. Clubs and promoters should send in their free listings, remember, if it doesn't appear in the magazine, you have no one to blame but yourself. We can't make it any easier than we do.

Don't forget about our annual breakfast to share those flyers, and get some news from us.

Let's all wish for a great 2017 car show season, good health, and a wonderful holiday season.

Have a Merry Christmas & A Happy New Year!
– Dave

St. Michael's Maritime Museum Concours Show

CSCG Publisher Dave Bielecki, Doug Wood, President of the Custom & Classic Car Education Foundation and Board Member and contributing photographer Mike Robinson were guests of the RPM Foundation's CEO, Diane Fitzgerald. The RPM Foundation is a national organization with the same goals as ours, to pass on interest in preserving these wonderful machines. We learned that construction has begun on the St. Michaels Classic Car Museum, which will be on the other side of the harbor from the Maritime Museum. We had a great time learning about all these high-end, timeless classics from their owners, as well as building a relationship with the RPM Foundation. Just a beautiful day at a beautiful setting.

Foundation Update

by Doug Wood

Hello all, and I guess you're ready for the long cold winter! The farmer's almanac is predicting a heavier than normal winter this year... But it's been wrong before; let's hope it's wrong again!

Now how about a little news... as I write this we are beginning our third year in existence. We have had the unique opportunity to meet all of our initial goals in such a short period of time! The Board has discussed new and fresh ways to get young people interested in our hobby...look for some of these things at the beginning of the next hot rod season.

Some of us had the opportunity to meet with the executives at the RPM Foundation where we learned quite a bit. We hope to continue this relationship with them as mentors to our organization.

I'm also happy to announce that the Tri-County Cruisers made a significant donation to the foundation just last week. It is my hope that other rod and custom clubs will follow their lead and make the CCCEF the beneficiary of your car shows and fundraising events. The CCCEF is unique in that we can help perpetuate your organization. Our job is to get young people interested in our hobby; not only to educate them in the formal sense, but also to get them interested enough to participate in your clubs and organizations!

The link to the scholarship page, application, and the Foundation message this month is:

In December we plan to make a big splash at the East Coast Indoor Nationals. Look for our booth there; bring your kids and grand-kids to have their picture taken in a real live NASCAR truck. Hope to see you there and as always.....

I'll see you on the return road! -Doug

America On Wheels Museum

The exhibit features an array of beautiful cars in the Changing Exhibit Gallery. One of the cars that will be on display this is a 1960 Buick Electra 225 convertible. It is a one-of-a-kind car, having been designed by the GM Styling studio for the use of Harlow Curtice, who was the President of General Motors.

Alan Gross, a collector and car historian, appreciates the variety of cars that were popular and unique in the 1950's. Allentown's America On Wheels Museum will present its newest changing exhibit, "Fender Skirts & Poodle Skirts, Cruisin' the Fabulous '50," Nov. 4 through March 2017.

The exhibit will showcase impressive 1950s cars that represent the decade. Photo and copy Courtesy of April Bartholomew / The Morning Call.

How the Station Wagon Morphed Into the 'Sport Utility Vehicle'

Back when everybody traveled by train, 'Station Wagon' was just another derivative of 'Depot Hack'. Basically they were taxis used to carry passengers and luggage from (railroad) stations. The term 'station wagon' generally replaced 'depot hack' sometime between 1923 and 1929, when Ford produced a Model A wagon. By 1941, Chrysler introduced the Town & Country station wagon, which was based on a four-door sedan. It was originally introduced as being a more versatile car, not a station wagon. By the post-war period this definition applied only to the classic, stretched wheelbase, rear-wheel drive vehicle, derived from a standard production automobile, with some form of rear tailgate.

I like station wagons. It's not just that wagons are practical. Like many Boomers, one of these suburban road warriors loom large in my memory, crawling around in the back of a '59 Chevy Kingswood 9-passenger that had such a leaky tailgate I inhaled a year's supply of carbon monoxide every time we went to the beach. That explains a lot, doesn't it? There was really nothing else more practical for a family of six, and you could bring all your Stuff, and the dog. There was a sense of adventure about them; they were big, comfortable, reliable, with a ridiculous list of high-end options, and in many cases—fast. Most factories offered a performance motor in a wagon by just checking the box; 350-plus hp with names like 'Interceptor' or 'Super Commando'. The fact that it handled like an ocean liner was irrelevant. If your Dad had one of these, you didn't mind borrowing it for a date when your car broke. It was faster than your car, and was, ah, more comfortable. I know this makes me a nerd, but I think station wagons look cool too, at least the ones from 50s and 60s. Some are becoming prized collectables. Its not just the real woodies, which, as everyone knows, have always been cool.

On this period, Greg Beato writes in The Smart Set that "at the height of the wagon craze, you could page through the Ford Treasury of Station Wagon Living, which advised, "The wagon is a workhouse for the do-it-yourself suburbanite...the wagon is a bedroom...the wagon is a kitchen...the wagon is a traveling nursery...the wagon is a rolling recreation device...the wagon is an entire mobile home...All these uses add up to something more than transportation, convenience or utility."

By the late 70s, conventional wagons were going through a die-off. The peak of the genre was the enormous '74 Olds Custom Cruiser and the last of the Chrysler Town & Country in 1978. The last really big Country Squire was in '85. The Jeep Wagoneer was way ahead of it's time and took the station wagon to new levels when it became a cushy, optioned-out truck with "Quadtrac" automatic 4WD. If you still wanted AWD without the truckiness, AMC offered The Eagle. Imitation wood were prized. Sportier owners displayed yacht flags representing their initials on the door like Walt Griswold's Family Truckster.

So what happened? Well, first the people that brought you "Earth Day" saw them as wretched excess, a dangerous 3-ton juggernaut belching tons of hydrocarbons. Then the "Oil Crisis" and emissions requirements dealt wagons a blow, then around the same time, Chrysler's minivan swooped in for the kill. They were supposed to have the same room of the big wagons, and the sliding side doors were an improvement, but they were slow and the look became a poster for "uncool" vehicle. Imports got into the game too, producing their own station wagons, some even with 4WD, improving mileage but losing much of the room, comfort and power.

Even though General Motors made a bold comeback for the traditional car-platform station wagon with the '92-'96 Caprice, Buick Roadmaster and Olds Custom Cruiser, the Chevy Suburban was steadily evolving into what would become the new trend. Yep, screw the gas, I want Big. Wagons didnt really "die" - they've always had a diehard following, and could be revived at any time. The Station Wagon was becoming a truck once again, a super-refined one. This is America. We like Big. We want Safe. Stopping the trend was like killing Godzilla by making him walk into power lines only to find it made him stronger. Then came the Denali, Escalade, Excursion and Navigator, awesome vehicles that were everything your Custom Cruiser was and more. Even Japan, who once were killing Detroit with small cars, were now producing Armadas and Sequoias, names that are metaphors for Big. We didn't stop there either; a couple of desert wars brought us the Hummer, and now, the gargantuan Ford F650.

The station wagon going forward is going to be a mix of what consumers like most about the SUV, the minivan, and of course, the traditional station wagon. What we think of as traditional station wagons will still be with us for some time. In fact, if you take a typical SUV, apply the 50s-60s theme of 'longer, lower, wider', maybe what you will end up with is...

American designer and engineer Gordon Buehrig (1904-1990) independently developed the design for the Tasco in 1946. Tasco stands for The American Sports Car Company ((the car and the company shared the same name). One interesting design element in the Tasco is its molded fiberglass front fenders, which turn with the wheels.

Buehrig also used the relatively new vacuum-forming technique to create small three-dimensional models during various phases for the design process from ABS plastic, an innovation that was later adopted industry-wide.

The Tasco's T-top roof design, with removable panels, was the first of its kind, and it influenced the 1968 Corvette decades later. Visibility was excellent, comparable to the cockpit of a two-seater airplane. The instrument display resembled an aircraft panel and was positioned high in front of driver, with the steering wheel mounted close to it.

10th Annual Town of Indian Head Car Show Sponsored by Indian Head Baptist Church Christian Sportsmen Fellowship Southern Maryland Chapter

The Tri-County Cruisers members met at the Burger King located at Accokeek by the Food Lion, Sunday morning of the show, to have a light breakfast together and then stream out of the shopping center as a group heading to the Indian Head Village Green to participate in the 10th Annual Town of Indian Head Car Show. This event was sponsored by the Indian Head Baptist Church Christian Sportsmen Fellowship. Once there the cars parked and as together as possible and settled in for a perfect weather day! It was a well-coordinated family event that by judging time, 92 cars had registered!

Continental breakfast pastries and water were all provided; there is never any charge at this event. You receive a free lunch ticket with your registration fee to enter your car for the judging. Popcorn is popped continually during the event and other snacks and water are available also.

By 2:30 cars had been judged and we all gathered up near the DJ for the presentation of trophies! As winners were announced, they stepped up for their trophy and a photo was taken as each received it as well as a Laurel and hardy hand shake of congratulations! Several of our Tri-County Cruisers' came away with trophies!

It was a perfect day and a great opportunity to sit and talk with many rodder friends who had come to support this annual event of fellowship.

Rusty's Man Cave by Dave Bielecki

Hard to believe that George Rust spends so much time at his local car shows & cruises. After taking a tour of his Man Cave, you would think that is where you should find him most of the time. So many personal touches from Rusty, especially the custom made coffee tables and seats, made from the front & rear ends of some of his favorite cars.

His wood working talents are evident wherever you look from the bar to the flooring. His favorite sport teams are well represented, along with his love for all things with a bow tie on them. Well done Rusty!

Jerry Breznicky's '68 Custom Camaro

After working as an auto technician at a car dealership for 28 Years, Jerry Breznicky opened Jerry's Hot Rods, building street rods and muscle cars. He did Mike Strickler's "The Old Reliable" tribute car to his father Dave Strickler. Total concours restoration for people including Jerry MacNeish, Charlie Lingenfelter, and several Camaros that went through Legends Judging at the Camaro Nationals. Now it was time to do a car for himself.

Jerry started with a '68 Camaro convertible that he felt needed to be built like no other. The dash was removed and a 1959 Impala dash was cut down to fit. He installed Classic Instrument gauges, made custom AC vents and installed vintage air. The buckets seats were replaced with a period correct square back bench seat. The seats were covered with NOS material from 1959 and of course the Impala rear seat speaker was fabricated into the rear seat.

To update the drivetrain a LS1 engine was installed with a 4l60E transmission. He replaced the front sub frame with a tubular frame from Total Cost Involved. The rear leaf springs were replaced with a 4 link from Ride Tech.

The body was mini tubbed and air ride shock waves were installed on all 4 corners.

To compliment all the work, Jerry painted the body in a root beer brown and installed a Hertz cloth convertible top.

The hard work has paid off with a Pro's Pick award from NSRA and Good Guys Rod & Customs.
