Welcome to the Cruise Guide ONLINE UPDATE

A Message from Dave

Hey Car Nuts,

Hope you have been getting out and enjoying a show or two. This spring between high gas prices and really weird weather, it sure makes you appreciate the events you do attend. In this Online Cruise Guide we have several photo spreads on many of your early season favorites.

By now I'm sure you have figured out that you no longer need to wait two months to read a new magazine. That's right, each and every month you now can read a new issue online.

We are still looking for ideas to keep our readers coming back every month. Just let me know if we can add something of interest for you. In this issue you will find a section where we feature reader's cars they send in. If you like what you see, I'm open to continuing it.

As a work in progress, we will fine tune the Online magazine. Rather than duplicate the event listings, we will just have them on the site, and in the print edition. As always, you can access the events and cruises by clicking on the event tab on our main page. During the season the shows are updated weekly, and cruise monthly.

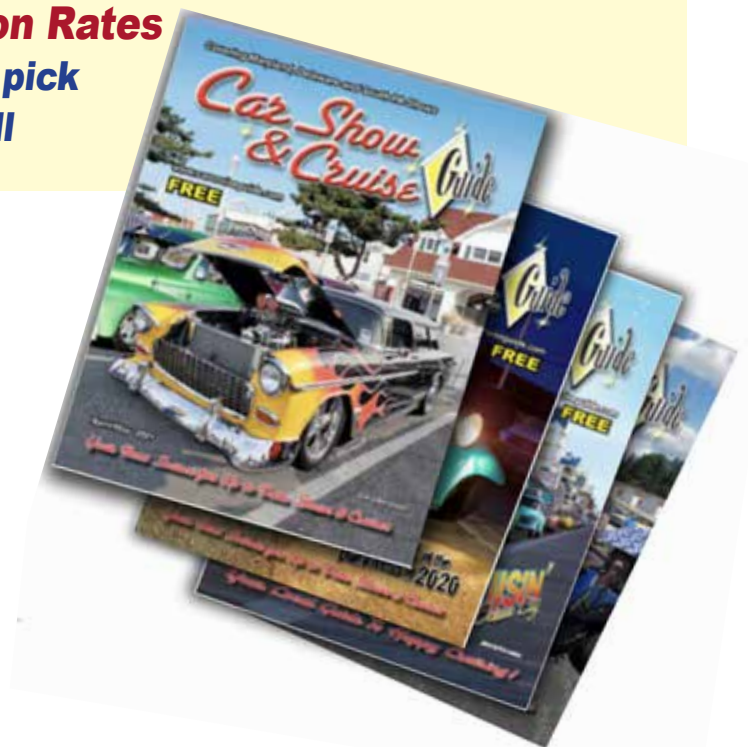

To see our Show & Cruise Updates, click on the Car Event Tab on our home page.

Happy Cruising, Dave

Road Trip!

by Dave Bielecki

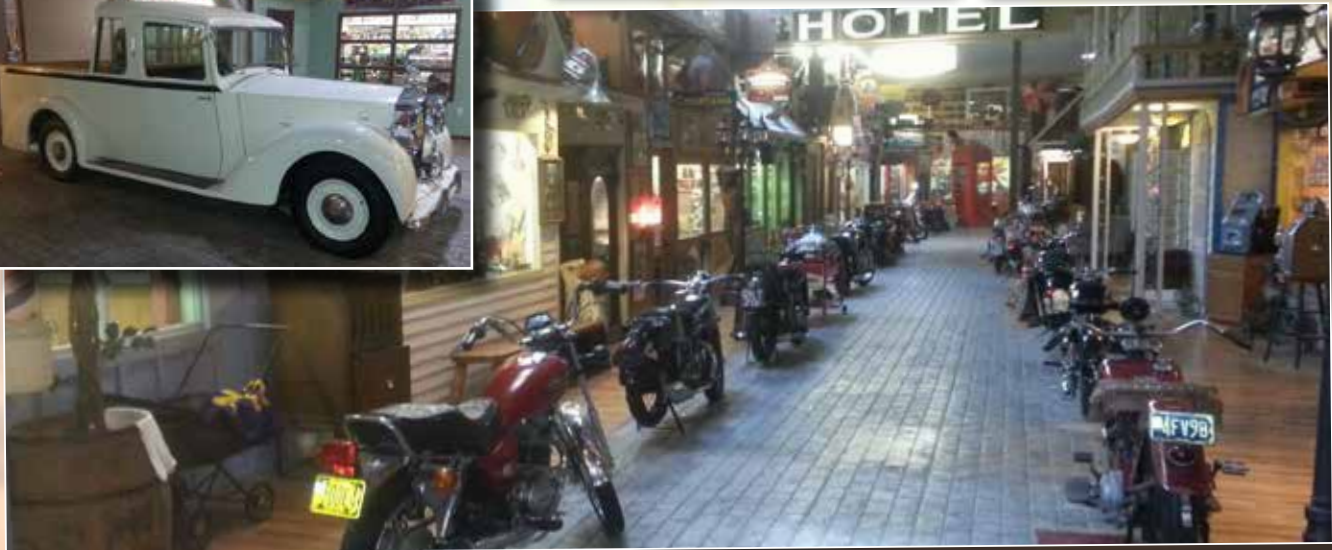

Bill's Old Bike Barn & Museum in Bloomsburg, Pa.

Dave & Diane Bielecki found this Gem on a recent vacation in Pennsylvania. On the literature we picked up, it says : "Take a walk through history" Well said for sure, if your interest in history starts in the early 1900's , Bill has you covered. After spending hours in the museum, Diane and I wondered how one man could have put all of this together.

While inside the building, there is a complete "Main Street" set up with all types of businesses, fully stocked with ton's of memorabilia. Bill Ross would have enjoyed the camera shop, Hutch would have been home in the Harley repair shop, Diane liked the Circus Carousel, and I liked the gas station. Something for everybody for sure. The museum included some four wheeled vehicles, such as a 1948 Rolls Royce pickup- didn't even know they made one.

The museum is just a short trip away for most CS&CG readers, put it on your list of things to do, you'll be happy you did. And if you need a part for a vintage bike, this is the place. – Dave

For what it's worth...

By J.D. Kurzmann

As I am writing to all of you "Cruiser's", there is about 30" of snow sitting outside of my door. Who would even think of their classic, street rod, or muscle car at a time like this, or even consider driving it?!

So I thought it would be fun to revive the late 1960's and early 70's Chrysler Muscle Car era and discuss one of their different muscle car "groups". For those of you who do not recall this time, Chrysler had three separate, but similar, motor divisions. Chrysler, Plymouth, and Dodge. Each division had their own performance group.

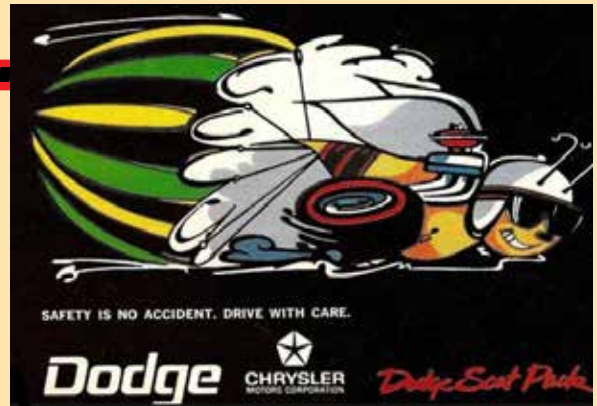

In this issue I want to discuss Dodge Motor Division's "Scat Pack". Yes, for all of you "newbies" it is the same name used today for the Dodge Challenger and some of its other related cars, but there was quite a difference back in the late 60's and 70's. Dodge was also pictured as the "Good Guy's". The one's in the white hats...A.K.A. the Dodge Boys. They even had a Sheriff in their T.V. ads who would always say....."you in a heap of trouble now"..... In Dodge's stable of cars, they had three basic body styles. The Coronet, Dart, and Charger. Each had their own variety of performance "brethren" or "wolves in sheep's clothing" that depended upon the wallet of the potential buyer.

Available performance engines were:

340 c.i. @ 275 h.p. / 383 c.i. @ 335 h.p. / 440 c.i. @ 375 h.p. / 440 w-3 2-barrel carbs @ 390 h.p. / 426 Hemi @ 425 h.p.
All of the engines were not available in every body style.

As an example, in 1969 the Dodge Dart came as a GT or GTS with either a 340, 383, or 440 (yes, for 1969 the 440 was available as a factory option)

The '69 Coronet could come as an R/T or Super Bee with the "rumble" stripe. The performance engines available were the 383, 440, 440 "SixPack", and the 426 Hemi. Super Bees sporting the 440 with 3, 2-barrels also came with the famous fiberglass hood and "Six Pack" scoop along with other performance upgrades like a Dana 60 series rear differential. If you have been watching the auctions on television, you know these cars continue to rise in value.

Kip's Tech Tip - by Kip Kurzmann

"THE CURVE"

Ignition curves (the advance) and why they are important...

For almost 50 years I have been 'setting up' distributors for race car, street machine, and muscle car enthusiasts and it still amazes me how many do not understand why every car has different ignition timing and advance curve requirements. Hopefully, this month's tip will shed some light on why it is so critical to a car's performance.....

First, there are three parts of an ignition distributors timing. They are the initial timing, mechanical advance, and the vacuum advance. The initial timing is what is established when the car is at idle. It can be as little as 4 degrees or as advanced as 20 degrees.

Next, is the 'Total Advance'. Total advance is the sum of the initial timing and the mechanical advance in the distributor. The way to arrive at a total advance number takes into consideration the cars weight, size of engine, compression ratio, type of combustion chamber, the stall speed of the converter if it is an automatic transmission car, rear differential ratio, the diameter of the rear tire, carburetor size, cam specifications...etc. This is why any off-the-shelf performance distributor might not work for your car's particular application.

Once you have arrived at a total advance number (using all of the information above), you need to set "the speed" at which the mechanical advance comes in when driving or racing the car. This is done by using various distributor weights and springs to either bring the 'curve' in faster or slower, depending upon your application.

In today's computer age the new 'direct' ignition engines can use a laptop to develop the proper curve for a car. All of the variables which I mentioned above are usually in the program. You just need to add your specific type of car and how you plan to use it....thank you and Happy Cruising.

Foundation Update

by Doug Wood

The Cruise Guide is a Sponsor of the Foundation

As I write this, it's approaching midnight of the day that this was due! It occurs to me that the old adage that life just gets in the way could not be more true.

It looks like mother nature may be tired of flexing her muscles... That little bit of snow that we recently got is hopefully the last that we'll see until late in this year!

Let's talk about donations a little bit... At the all clubs breakfast a few weeks ago, I spoke about giving locally. As an example Dan Hartman is doing the Big M reunions (spring and fall) and is planning to make sizable donations to the foundation for each. I am hoping that other clubs and organizations will consider doing the same this year and in the years going forward. We have been relatively successful in our endeavor to send kids to school or involve them in our hobby in other ways. It has always been Dave's and my dream to maybe be able to provide a full scholarship to some deserving individual during our lifetime. Please remember that we are entirely donations dependent, so we hope that local clubs in the area will give us a hand.

We will be holding a fundraising event at Harford Vineyard and Winery on April 16. There there will be a limited number of picks and a few special awards. We are only asking for a $5. donation, and remember the money that you spend to enter our fundraiser is considered a donation, so check with your tax man to find out if you can deduct it.

At the breakfast I mentioned that we are still looking for help here at the foundation. If you are interested, please give me or Dave a call... My phone number is 410-456-2227... Dave's is 410-937-6866.

I can't wait to get out in my Oldsmobile for some cruising... It seems as though it's been two steps forward and three steps back. All in good time as they say! With that folks... I'll see you on the return road!

Getting to The POINT

with Frank Brusque

The Vanity of The Trophy

So far, this column is for Venting. This issue, I will let this young lady rodder from Facebook take a shot – (who will remain nameless; you know who you are). She brings to light a recent event featuring the infantile behavior of a guy who apparently takes his car way too seriously and had a meltdown 'cause he didn't win the trophy. (You, Sir, will also remain nameless because you and everybody else who was there knows who YOU are. I built my car, and I never got a trophy. Never really thought about it. The real trophy will be when it sells. Maybe we should go full PC at the carshows and do like a sissy kid's ball team and give everybody one.

– Frank

We know the show season has just begun and you are noticeably excited, but before you explode with jubilation we'd like to stop you for a second and address an incident from last year.

Do you remember? It happened at the show where you spent most of the day glued to your folding chair positioned beside your car. You grew agitated with each passing moment you were not judged, and when it was your time you made damn sure the judges were well aware of the fifth TV screen your car had, versus your competitors one.

Yes, we're talking about that show.

The same show where upon not winning the trophy you had already awarded yourself mentally, you tried to keep your composure but the expression on your face and words muttered under breath betrayed you.

As you stomped off like a child we watched, and later when you went on a social media slandering the event, its competitors, and the 'scene' in general we watched that too.

Letting loose an onslaught of complaints and personal attacks, alongside boisterous self promotion justifying why you deserve an award, makes you look incredibly immature, especially when you do it after every event.

Do you really think show organizers want to read complaints you made while they were still at the venue cleaning up? Do you think those who accepted their awards humbly want to read about how little you think of their cars?

Yeah, we've got to tell you, as a friend all of that behavior is getting pretty tiresome. Driving from show to show as some sort of mobile shrine to yourself has blinded you to the true joys of being a true car enthusiast.

Sure, we all love appreciation for the cars we call our own, but the rest of us have realized that building a car for ourselves is a much more valuable endeavor and that appreciation comes in ways not limited to plastic cups.

All the time you spend obsessing over something to put on a shelf in your garage, or worse cart from show to show as some sort of mobile shrine to yourself, has blinded you to the true joys of being an enthusiast.

Did you happen to notice the small child that spent an extra long time looking at your car? Chances are they will remember your vehicle for years to come and it just might have set them down the path of becoming an enthusiast one day. You'd pick up on these kind of subtleties if you saw the forest beyond the trees, or that is, the community beyond the awards. Building a car, truck or bike should never be just about a trophy because honestly there are much cheaper pastimes to partake in if you just want to line your mantel or work bench with trinkets.

Witnessing your adult temper-tantrums is exhausting, and your empty threats to retire and leave the scene fall on deaf ears because, thanks to your increasingly poor attitude, we kind of wish you would.

But as much as events could do without you, we want to let you know it isn't too late to change.

Instead of fixating on the prize at the end, focus on the journey, the experiences, and friends that come with building a car and being a real enthusiast. When you're at the next event on your calendar Take a look around at what everyone else is doing- swapping stories, laughing, catching up and genuinely enjoying themselves. Is missing all that really worth a trophy?

After all these years of chasing awards we know it might be hard to change your mind about the true purpose of the shows (TLDR: it's about the people, not the awards) but if you could at least try to see them differently this year, that would be great.

The Automotive World Returned to Carlisle for Spring Carlisle 2022

A Mix of Nice Weather, Well Stocked Vendors, and Dedicated Guests Powered the Annual Gathering

For the first time since 2019, the Carlisle PA Fairgrounds and Spring Carlisle welcomed automotive enthusiasts from around the world with the return of international event attendees. This year's event, presented by eBay Motors, did just that and then some as guests and vendors alike flocked to Carlisle between April 20-24, 2022 to buy, sell and trade all things automotive. Spring Carlisle was one part commerce and one part social gathering; as has been the case since 1977. It once again served as THE event to jump-start the outdoor events season in Carlisle!

What was obvious early was the amount of vendors eager to re-connect with one another and the demand that their offerings have within the hobby. Cruising the grounds in advance of the April 20 start date, vendors were mixing and mingling with one another, catching up, buying and selling amongst each other, and otherwise getting ready for the big event. When the gates opened at 7 a.m. on Wednesday, their advanced planning and hard work paid off, as throngs of enthusiasts converged on Carlisle.

Car parts, merchandise, memorabilia, collectibles, and more were coming and going all day, every day. Cars and trucks were even finding new garages to call home as business was booming in all corners of the 82-acre facility. In 2022, there were more vendors, more tickets sold, and more people at Carlisle than there were in 2021; a year that was record-breaking for Carlisle Events.

As noted in the opening headline, the automotive world did indeed return to Carlisle. Canadian guests were back in full force, so were those trekking to the Cumberland Valley from "across the pond." Every face had a smile on it at Carlisle and the next generation of the hobby was also on-site in full force, especially on Saturday where kids were out of school and families were off work.

Speaking of kids, Spring Carlisle welcomed the York County School of Technology to the stage area as they hosted exhibition runs in front of their Hot Rodders of Tomorrow championship competition in the days following event weekend. Multiple teams of school-aged enthusiasts tore down and re-built a Chevy small block engine. The competition is done against the clock and per certain criteria put in place by the Hot Rodders organization. From their first run to their last, they had a crowd cheering them on, asking questions, and taking photos of them in action.

The stage area was actually a popular spot for guests throughout Spring Carlisle. On it were members of the AACA Car Club. They returned to Carlisle to showcase cool cars from the club, solicit for new members, and promote their upcoming fall meet in Hershey. While the AACA was on the stage, the ARMO Hot Products Showcase was in front of it. ARMO brought some of the hottest NEW products on the market to the masses at Carlisle. ARMO is a council of SEMA, which is a private industry trade event held each fall in November. For most guests, this ARMO display gives them a first-hand/in-person look at ways to better their prized ride.

One of the best parts about Spring Carlisle 2022 was the giving nature of those who walked through the gates. Through a joint effort between Carlisle Events, the Salvation Army, and multiple local Lions Clubs, over $3,000 was raised for Ukrainian Humanitarian relief efforts. That total includes a company donation made by Carlisle Events, plus in person donations by those attending Spring Carlisle. Best of all, at least two generous attendees dropped $100 in the bin. That kind of support goes a long way to helping those in need and will continue throughout the 2022 season.

Another great element of Spring Carlisle was the two-day classic and collector car auction hosted by Carlisle Auctions (more soon). The Spring Carlisle Collector Car Auction tallied $6.5 million in sales (including fees) and can boast a 72% sell-through rate. The auction even had its own charitable venture, with several thousand dollars raised for veterans at the James E. Van Zandt VA Medical Center in Altoona, Pennsylvania.

While Spring Carlisle is a wrap for 2022, Carlisle Events sets its sights on the next event, plus next year's spring show. Up next at the fairgrounds is the annual international showcase of cars and trucks as part of the Carlisle Import & Performance Nationals (May 13-14). As Spring Carlisle 2023 goes, the event is planned for April 19-23, with the auction happening April 20-21. Complete details on all things car show related, including the ability to buy spectator tickets in advance at a discounted rate can be found at CarlisleEvents.com.

The Spring Carlisle Collector Car Auction Delivers an Event for the Ages in April of 2022

72% Sell-Through Rate, $6.5 Million in Sales, and MANY Happy Auction Guests

In the days leading up to the 2022 Spring Carlisle Collector Car Auction, there was optimism by many that this event just might be the best Spring auction ever. That hope became a reality and then some as hundreds of bidders converged online and in-person for the auction, helping send 72% of all available lots home to new owners, while tallying $6.5 million in sales (includes fees).

For two days (April 21-22, 2022), plus multiple preview opportunities leading up to it, the Carlisle Expo Center became a mecca for those looking for their first or next classic. 400+ lots were anticipated, which included enough trucks to fill a themed hour on Thursday, April 21; plus 100 years of confirmed consignments. With rides spanning 1923 to 2022, there was literally something for everyone and just about everyone at the event were able to find what they needed.

From the first smack of the gavel on April 21 to the final hammer to fall on April 22, the interior of the Expo Center and its adjoining parking lot were hopping. The roar of the engines, the smell of car care products; it was a true sensory experience.

In addition to all the senses that were piqued throughout, the auction benefitted charity too. According to Tony Cline, Director of Auction Operations, "several thousand dollars were raised for veterans at the James E. Van Zandt VA Medical Center in Altoona, Pennsylvania."

It turns out that not only was this auction fun for all involved, it goes down as THE BEST Carlisle Auctions event of all-time – not just an all-timer for Spring, but for any Carlisle auction. The 72% sell-through rate and $6.5 million in sales (with fees) are the best numbers to ever come out of an auction. Along with the in-person sales, at least 30 cars sold online too, meaning the fun was not only available to those at Carlisle, but to those on a PC around the world.

The top five (5) selling cars totaled nearly $360,000, with Thursday's top seller being the '67 Corvette, while the Oldsmobile 442 convertible was tops for Friday. The top five (5) are as follows:

- 1) 1971 Oldsmobile 442 Convertible - $100,440
- 2) 1969 Camaro - $85,320
- 3) 1934 Ford 5 Window - $83,160
- 4) 1967 Corvette - $81,500
- 5) 1965 Tiger Sunbeam - $81,000

If the cars were hot, trucks were even hotter. On April 21 starting at about 4 p.m. an all-truck hour took over the Expo Center. This 60-minute window of time saw dozens of trucks cross the block, with 80% of them selling.

"Thank you to all of the buyers and sellers that helped make the Spring Carlisle Auction the most successful auction that we've ever produced," noted Tony Cline. "We could not do what we do without our buyers and sellers in person and online. I can't wait to welcome everyone back to Carlisle for our next car auction, September 29-30, 2022 as part of Fall Carlisle," continued Cline. We are actively taking consignments today and registering bidders for the event."

Carlisle Events is a partner or producer of over a dozen annual collector car/truck events. Events are held at the Carlisle PA Fairgrounds (Carlisle, PA), Allentown Fairgrounds (Allentown, PA) and the SUN 'n FUN Expo Campus (Lakeland, FL). The season schedule includes five automotive flea markets of varying size, multiple auctions, as well as individual specialty shows featuring Corvettes, Fords, GMs, Chryslers, trucks, imports, tuners and performance sport compacts. Founded in 1974 by friends Bill Miller and Chip Miller, events hosted at Carlisle attract enthusiasts annually from all corners of the globe. A Message from the Publisher

Thanks to all my Readers, Subscribers, and Club Members

2022 looks like it might bring more challenges like the past two years did. My biggest concern is rising costs. Postage, printing and gas have increased at a large rate this past year. Since I publish this as a favor to the hobby, not getting a regular paycheck is not an issue. But I'm concerned that certain mailing & distribution costs could cause me to reach in my own pocket to keep things going.

My wife would rather I didn't! So, recently a couple of subscribers paid extra to cover postage, and over the past several years many clubs have helped with the expense of sending out bundles of magazines for the club members. I want to thank you all for your help, and when you can, please consider helping out again this year. Here's to a successful car show season, and a healthy one for all my readers.

– Dave

Hooligan's Reliability Run

The day after Jalopyrama, Mark & Jacque Williams of the Hooligans Car Club hosted a Reliability Run. On that beautiful October day, about 30 cars met at the 439 Maryland Line park & ride at noon, and headed out to Middletown Road to our first stop, Waggener's Salloon.

On our way thru Jefferson, the little yellow roadster lost fuel pressure. A rescue crew was dispatched while the main group cruised through Codorus State Park on our way to our second planned stop, Goofy's. The roadster was fixed before we could finish lunch; that's why it's called the Reliability Run I guess.

These folks are the real deal; they love to drive 'em. And it's great cruizin' with them in one awesome rolling car show parade. The cruise rounded out with a stop in Spring Grove and Seven Valleys, and the drive back included some of the most scenic in south Pennsylvania, routes 216 & 116 back to Shrewsbury on Susquhanna Trail Rd. A good time was had by all!

The Hooligan's offspring are definitely Future Rodders....

Gas Stop.

After an on the road repair, we descended on Goofy's.

Goofy's.

On the Road Again.

Another Creepy Clown sighting!

Dave Kluck's '55 Willys Aero "Bermuda"

My dad opened a Willys (that's Will-is, not Will-eze) dealership in 1952 in New Ulm, Minnesota. Prior to '52, the brand was known as the original mass producer of the military Jeep, and later, Jeep trucks, station wagons and the Jeepster. The Bantam company in PA gets credit for the first Jeep prototype, but it didn't have the capacity to meet the military's production needs.

In 1952 Willys introduced the Aero passenger car, their first since 1942. The Aero was very stylish, and I can remember a lot of showroom traffic for this new, "compact" car. Dad sold quite a few Aeos along with large numbers of Jeep products. The top of the line Aero featured a 6-cylinder F Head engine which has the intake valves in the head, and the exhaust valves in the block. Despite its small, 161 cu. in., 90-hp engine, it performed very well because of the larger intake valves. (The CJ Jeep used a 4-cylinder version of this from 1954 until the 1970s.)

The Aero only lasted from '52 to '55, with a total production of 100,000 cars. By the late 50's, my dad had closed his dealership for a management position with Caterpillar.

I left Minnesota in 1968 to join the Army. After 21 years in the Army, my wife and I settled in BelAir where I could start my antique car hobby. The influence of the Willys Aero in my youth was strong, because I've had 5 of them. I currently have this 'Bermuda' 2-door hardtop, and a rare, '54 Ace Deluxe 4-door sedan with right hand drive. I imported the rust-free car from Capetown, South Africa and, like the Aeos, is completely restored. There were only 2,100 Bermudas in this last year of production. I also have a '55 Willys Custom parts car.

My 1950 Willy Jeepster is my hot rod; also a full restoration, but it is now powered by a stock Ford 302 V8 and C4 automatic trans.

See you at the shows! I'm easy to find. - Dave with Andy Goodman

Here's to another month at Goodman's Scaled Garage. As we make our way into April and start preparing for the outdoor show season, it's a great time to get your want lists cleaned up and updated. Diecast vendors are beginning to prepare for upcoming event this spring by picking up the latest releases from their distributors, as well as seeking out older out of production releases to have variety for their customers.

Talking about want lists, one of the most practical ways of keeping organized is simply having a written or typed list on hand with detailed information referencing the pieces you are looking for; however, for those that are more technologically savvy you can use your cellphones and photo sites to create pictorial want lists; websites like Photobucket (<https://photobucket.com/>) and SmugMug (<https://www.smugmug.com/>) offer an ability to host pictures with captions in your account that you can access from your mobile device, anywhere at any time. ere are some New Releases coming this Spring.

Till next month –
Happy Hunting!

It is a revered place, where guys (and gals) who really love cars can work, or just hang out and BS with friends and experience the satisfaction you get from building and owning a cool car or two. For some, it is a home away from home. Hell, we bet some of you have more $ in the garage than you do in your home! Show us your Man Cave. Sherman's Dale Community Fire Company Car Show

Perry County Auto Meet is an annual event usually held the last Sunday in June at Lupfer's Grove and Campground Sherman's Dale PA.

The mock garage displays are interesting indeed, crowded with detail and authenticity. Check out these great shots by Mike Kissinger. We saved them for the Man Cave so we could recommend a trip to The Shermans Dale Show this year and see it for yourself.

The show is the largest single day auto event in Central PA and includes vendors, flea market, arts and crafts and more.

This is a family and community friendly event. The SDCFC will be providing great food, entertainment, hourly trivia questions with prizes, one hundred dollar drawings for pre-registered only, 300 dash plaques to the first 300 vehicles thru the gate, and cash door prize drawings.
